

G-BIACK; RESTORING LIVES OF THOUSANDS OF POOR FARMERS IN RURAL KENYA

G-BIACK TEAM TRAINING AND OFFERING SERVICES TO SMALL HOLDER FARMERS AND EXTENSION OFFICERS

The GROW BIOINTENSIVE Agriculture Centre of Kenya G-BIACK is a Kenyan rural non-governmental organization (NGO) founded in 2008 with a goal of reducing extreme poverty and improving the living standards of resource poor families and communities.

To promote ecologically viable development strategies for sustainable, quality livelihoods, G-BIACK's agricultural and vocational training programs provide rural farmers and their communities with opportunities to learn sustainable farming methods and other solutions to the issues of food security, health, and poverty. G-BIACK also provides special programs to specifically help an often marginalized group in this society: women and girls, including widows impoverished by the effects of HIV/AIDS.

During our 14 years of existence, we have recorded thousands of small scale farmers improving their food production, families reducing their levels of poverty, children going to school, and as well, the malnourished children improving their health. This has been successful through knowledge transfer in workshops, through demo farms, agricultural experiments and trials, and other avenues where we have been interacting closely with the farmers. While we have had very meager resources to do this work, it has never been a hindrance because our main aim has been to utilize the little to reach out to the masses.
